

About ISB

The Indian School of Business is a premier management institution established in 2001. In a short span of eight years, the ISB has established itself as a leading B-school across the world. For the second year running, the ISB was acknowledged by the Financial Times to be among the best Business Schools. The 15th rank is not an end in itself, but a further impetus to build a truly world class school in India - one that is focused on solutions that impact millions, that studies new leadership models relevant to evolving societies and is yet at the cutting edge of global research. With a strong pool of research oriented resident faculty and renowned visiting international faculty the ISB is geared to play an active role in the development of future leaders, and impacting business and economy.

About Net Impact

In 1993, a group of socially-minded students got together and built a network for social welfare. Today there are over 120 chapters at top business schools around the world. The ISB chapter (first in Asia) began in 2003 when a network of new generation leaders committed themselves to use the power of business to improve the world. Over the years, the club has used its business skills which have been developed with lots of corporate exposure to solve social problems. Our aim is to foster a sense of lasting social responsibility and to inspire student interest in applying business skills towards positive social impact. It achieved Gold Chapter status this year, which means it is one of the best Net Impact Chapters in the world.
