Message from Dean

The Executive Fellow Programme in Management (EFPM) is one of the only programmes of its quality in the country. It has been specially created for senior executives who wish to deepen their understanding of research methods and apply them to address the modern challenges of today's dynamic business environment.

There are very few options for business executive education beyond a Master's- level degree. This holds true particularly for professionals who want to seek terminal-level education, while still fully employed. The growing complexity of managing a business in a rapidly changing business environment has created a need for business doctorates beyond those acquired by executives within organisations

There is an extreme shortage of doctoral-level faculty at business schools, as identified by the Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB), the world's premier accrediting body of business schools. Offering doctoral-level programmes to executives helps in addressing the clinical faculty needs of business schools and enhances their teaching capacity.

Message from Academic Director, EFPM

Once in a while, there is that someone who wishes to engage in research. Fuelled by a desire to be informed by theory, to dive into real-world data, to qualify opinion with hard evidence. To look beyond popular frameworks, to bring rich experience to bear upon the pursuit of knowledge. This is how the journey to earn a doctoral degree begins. It is sheer hard work and takes time.

The ISB Executive Fellow Programme in Management (EFPM) is specifically designed for senior business practitioners who wish to embark on the research path. On par with international standards, this programme will equip participants with the necessary theory and tools to conduct high-quality research. The curriculum is designed by our world-class faculty and is rigorous as well as relevant to contemporary concerns in business.

Existing EFPM participants are Senior Executives who wish to leverage their business experience and branch out into management consulting, transition to academia as teachers in Higher Education, or simply want to hone their skills in business research.

The EFPM candidates have decades of business experience and held senior leadership positions in industry.
